JoeC2: I suspect the Windows update caused your problem. MS quickly released another problematic update (in terms of installing it) that fixed the problems caused by the previous Windows update. Please make sure your computers have KB4015438 installed and then see if the problem persists. If you Google this update, you will see a lot of reporting problems getting it installed. On one of my computers, it took three attempts, and on the other hand, it took six attempts before it was finally installed. Sorry, I can't help you with your .msi question. I hope it helps. It's a great day. Enjoy the best quality videos in 4K, HDR, Blu-ray or DVD, HEVC, and 360 VRLast updated on 04/17/20 There's been 1 update in the last 6 monthsIn this version has 0 flags on VirusTotal CyberLink PowerDVD can not only handle traditional DVDs and Blu-ray, But it also supports digital video formats such as MKV, H.264, 3D, and even 4k. This new build, version 15, also supports online video from providers such as YouTube and Vimeo, or you can download your own on CyberLink Cloud. Luxury, though expensive, offers a home theater experience for those who consume a lot of media on the go. Pros Optimized Media: CyberLink PowerDVD in TrueTheater Smart Enhancement can automatically optimize video and sound quality. Skin tones seem more realistic, and black levels of movies thanks to individual hue and saturation adjustments from TrueTheater Color. The noise-crush video eliminates the compression nebula effect found in many online videos, providing a brighter picture. Improved video works on movies under 2048 pixels x 1152 pixels, making it compatible with most FullHD sources. Sound setting: TrueTheater Sound uses intelligent settings to give your sound a boost. Improvements bring a deeper level of bass, immersive ambient sound, better vocals, and captivating surround sound effects. Optimization is more noticeable on audio headsets, but can improve sound quality on the speakers, too. Swiss Army Knife Player: PowerDVD 15 can handle a large number of video, audio and image formats. Using your hardware memory, the player churning out 4k videos without stuttering. PowerDVD also allows you to view high-frequency video (from 120 frames per second, to 240 frames per second) like those made by the new iPhone 6 or GoPro without Apple iMovie. We appreciate the direct reproduction of NAS and the support of DLNA. Watch longer using less power: PowerDVD performs admirably without wasting system resources. Improving energy consumption means a longer battery life for your devices. DVR for online streams: Download YouTube or Vimeo movies to watch offline at your convenience. Hear the song you like? PowerDVD can rip the audio track for longer listening. CyberLink Cloud lets you store videos, sync music, create playlists, and stream them directly wherever you are. TrueTheater improvements are also available for online video. Cons Buying a ticket to your own show: With so many free options out there, it can be hard to justify paying for a media player. Cineastes will want a pony for the premium version as PowerDVD significantly enhances your entertainment when the hardware is limited to a laptop and mobile device. The PowerDVD Standard is pretty minimal, missing many important features such as Blu-ray playback. It's more cost effective to splurge on a Pro or even An Ultra option. Bare Bones Web Search: PowerDVD can support YouTube and Vimeo, but the functionality of the search leaves much to be desired. Keywords bring up video sketches without information like dates and viewing counts. If you no longer know what video you would like to view, copy and paste direct URLs from relevant web search services was the best way to get to your content on PowerDVD. CyberLink also allows you to log in to accounts, but you still need a browser to manage them. Bottom line If you are in the market for a more sophisticated video watch experience, PowerDVD delivers. With its Smart Enhancement and TrueTheater technology, CyberLink provides a cinematic experience without expensive hardware.
